- Beyond these chilling winds and gloomy skies, Beyond death's cloudy portal, There is a land where beauty never dics, Where love becomes immortal.
- A land whose light is never dimmed by shade, Whose fields are ever vernal; Where nothing beautiful can ever fade, but blooms for aye, eternal. We may not know how sweet the balmy air,
- How bright and fair its flowers; We may not hear the songs that echo there, Through those enchanting bowers, The city's shining towers we may not see With our dim earthly vision, For Death, the silent warder, keeps the key
- That opens the gate elysian But sometimes when adown the western sky
- A fiery sunset lingers,
 Its golden gates swing inward noiselessly,
 Unlocked by unseen fingers. And while they stand a moment half ajar, Gleams from the inner glory. Stream brightly through the azure vaults afar,
- And half reveal the story. O, land unknown! O, land of love divine!
- Father, all-wise, eternal, O, guide these wandering, way-worn feet of mine Into those pastures vernal.

THE OUTBREAK IN IRELAND.

We copy the following from the cable dispatches to the New York papers, being more full than the meagre abstract the Associated Press transmitted to us:

LONDON, Thursday, March 7—Evening.—Dispatches received during the day from Dublin and Cork give the following particulars of the last outbreak in Ireland: break in Ireland:
A fight took place on Tuesday night at Triaght, about eight miles south of Dublin, between the armed police and a large body of Fenians. One of the latter was killed, and five were wounded. The police captured eighty prisoners and six loads of ammunition, and up to dark to-day over two hundred prisoners had been brought into Dublin. The main body of the Fenians engaged in the fight retreated to the hills north of Dublin, with Lord Straitheairn, the commander of the British forces Assaults have been made upon the stations at Caryfort, in Wicklow county, and upon that at Holy Cross, and the insurgents have supplied themselves with arms from all these places. The excitament in Tipperary is intense. Gen. Cleeson is reported to be there.

It declares that, "after ages of outrage and of vain appeals to reason and justice, they have at last resolved to appeal to arms to rescue Ireland from serfdom and establish national union, public safety and political freedom, and bring about the consequent separation of Church and State. The rails on the roads running into Waterford have been forn up.

Large quantities of ammunition and materials for producing "Greek Fire" have been discovered and seized by the soldiers and police in various

A cable dispatch announces that Dr. David Liv-ingstone, the African explorer, has been murdered by the Kaffirs. Another name is thus added to the long list of adventurous explorers whose lives have been sacrificed in attempts to unravel the mysteries of the interior of Africa.

Dr. Lavingstone was a native of Scotland, born in 1817. In early life he was a cotton-spinner, but afterwards studied medicine and theology, and afterwards studied medicine and theology, and fitted himself for the career of a missionary. In 1838 the Lendon Missionary Society accepted the offer of his ervices, and assigned him to duty on the West Coast of Africa, where he arrived in the summer of 1840. During the ensuing sixteen years he labored at various missionary stations in Africa, making occasional scientific journeys into the interior of the country, and adding valuable contributions to geography and natural history, which obtained for him, in 1855, the honor of the Victoria gold medal from the Royal Geographical Society. After a successful journey across South-Victoria gold medal from the Royal Geographical Society. After a successful journey across Southern Africa, he returned to England in 1856 and published hi. "st volume on African travel. In 1858 he resumed his explorations, and in November, 1865, published his last work in England, under the title of a "Narrative of an Expedition to the Zambesi and its Tributaries, and of the Discovery of the Lakes Shirwa and Nyassa."

The results of this expedition were summed up by Dr. Livingstone at the close of his work. First, a port available for commercial purposes was discovered; secondly, the course of the Zambesi was accurately ascertained, and the explorers satisfied themselves that that stream was "a speedy themselves that that stream was "a speedy means of transit to the interior of highlands which in all probability will yet become the sphere of Eu-ropean enterprise." Subsequent discoveries by Speke and Grant confirmed the statement made by Livingstone, and added much to the information Speke, Gordon Cumming, Gerard, Barth and Livingstone are dead; and of the famous African explorers, only Grant, Baker and Du Chaillu now survive. Dr. Livingstone was a man of large re-sources and untiring energy, and his contributions to geographical knowledge and general science are of the greatest value. Aside from his labors as an explorer, his services as a miss onary were of no common order.

Several Indians attended the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany in Washington on Sunday morning, when a sarmon was preached on the subject of domestic missions, and without any previous announcement $1200 were collected on the spot for mission purposes. The afternoon services at the same church were rendered interesting by the presence of a large number of Dakotas and Ojibways, baptized members of the church. One of the Ojibways, who is an ordained deacon, was in the chancel with his surplice and made a few remarks, in good English, explaining the condition of his tribe, followed by remarks from two others in their own language. A choir of twelve sang two hyms very creditably in their native tongue, and every Indian present had his prayer book, translated from the Book of Common Prayer. The church was crowded to excess. It is proposed to fill those with blinds of a decorative character, and a window has been offered to each of the most important corporations of Great Britain, chambers of commerce, civic companies, and railway companies, to enable blinds illustrating the manufactures, etc., peculiar to the town, or decorated with designs, heraldic or otherwise, to be erected. The British executive will will several windows with blinds illustrating the early history of inventions, which will form an interesting series. Stephenson's "Bocket," Braithwaite's "Novelty," Hackworth's "Sanspariel," being the earliest trial locomotives; Lyminton's steam paddle engine, which was the first successful engine of its kind; Watt's sun and net beam engine, and Arkwright's loom furnish GAMBLING .- A bill is before the Legislature of Louisiana, which proposes to license gambling houses at $10,000 per annum. The curious feature of the bill is the provision that requires each gambling room to be on the ground floor, fronting on a public thoroughfare, with one or more large windows to the room, so that the passer-by may see all that is going on in the room where the gambling is done. It is ctaimed that in this way the gambling room will be open to the inspection of the police at all hours—to merchants, bankers and others who have clerks; to fathers who have sons, and to wives also. The idea is a new one; and the law, if rigidly enforced, might be productive of much good in deterring certain classes of persons much good in deterring cer from visiting such places.

New York Dry Good Market.

NEW YORK, March 6.—The Dry Goods trade has improved considerably the past week. Merchants are here in considerable numbers from the West, and business begins to wear a promising aspect. A few Southern merchants only are in town, and they are buying very sparingly. Trade at the South is very dull indeed, with no prospect of much improvement for months to come, or until another cotton crop can be gathered. Our importers and jobbers manifest at present no disposition to give credit to Southern merchants. Losses in that direction have more than covered all profits, and they will be very shy of again burning their fingers. Domestic goods are in air demand at present prices, but the trade are waiting the tendency of gold under the new law of Congress in regard to issuing currency certificates. The market is well supplied with foreign goods, while the domand for the season is only moderate, except for a few desirable styles, which for the moment happen to be scarce. Brown and bleached sheetings are active and firm in price for well known brands; others are comparatively dull. Drills steady and dull. Stripes and ticks are more in demand. Print cloths are steady with no great demand. Prints in good spring styles are firm and quick of sale; some very handsome styles are now on exhibition. Broadcloths and other Woollen goods are dull; except a few spring styles of cassimeres. Ginghams are in good demand; also printed lawns and other thin fabrics for the early spring trade. A good many auction sules are advertised, and that department of business promises great activity. Many of our large importers prefer to put their goods on the market at once rather than take the risk of lower prices, which they for the moment seem to fear owing to the failure of the new tariff law.

Boston Boot and Shoe Market. BOSTON, March 6.—There has been a firmer and better feeling in the market the past week, and sales have been more easily effected at about former prices for the been more easily effected at about former prices for the generality of goods, while some lines are slightly advanced on last week's rates. The trade has had rather a hard trial for the past six weeks in so disposing of goods as not to net a profit on the wrong side of the ledger, prices having from the commencement of the spring trade been depressed to a point at which it was impossible to manufacture. In consequence of which considerable retrenchment took place in the manufacturing towns, which has kept the market from being greatly overburdened. We understand that in some branches operations are We understand that in some branches operations are again being commenced, but mostly on the heavier kinds of work suitable for the fall trade, it being evident that the stock of spring goods is ample for the demand for the present season. The request has been and is at present rather for the heavier grades of goods of all descriptions, which have commanded better prices than light pump sole work. For women's, misses' and boy's pegged balmorals, the plain grain leather seems to have preference over peabled, the latter having failed in many cases to give satisfaction in wearing. The shipments for the week have been 24,506 cases, an increase of about 1000 over last year, and 6300 more than at the same time last year.

CARD.

It is with feelings of pride as American manufacturers that we publish the following testimonials, which have been received by us recently:

EUROPEAN TESTIMONIALS,

Received during the month of August, 1866. London, July 25, 1867.
MESSES. CHICKERING & SONS—Gents: I have muc MESSES, CHICKERING & SOME—Gents: I have much pleasure in enclosing a document signed by the first composers, musicians and professors in Europe. I held your Pianos in such high estimation (vide my certificate) that I felt it my duty to take one of them with me to Europe, to ascertain the opinion of my professional brethren. The enclosed certificate will prove how unanimous they have been on the subject. I beg to floward, at the same time, a letter I received from my friend, Mr. Collard, which I am sure must be gratifying to you.

JAMES M. WEHLI. TONDON, January 14, 1866. LONDON, January 14, 1886.

My Dean Sm: I have great pleasure in asking youto convey to Messrs. Chickering the expression of my highest approval of their instrument. It is, I consider, not merely the best instrument of American manufacture that I have tried, but one of the fluest Grand Piano-fortes that has ever come under my observation; and the Messrs. Chickering may well be proud of having turned out from their manufactory an instrument which, for touch, quality, power and workmanship, it would be very difficult to surpass in any part of the wide world.

Having played upon a Piano-forte made by Messrs.

Among the chief points of excellence of the Chickering Pianos, of which speak the renowned artists in their congratulatory testimonials to the Messrs Chickering, are the greatest possible depth, richness and volume of tone, combined with a rare brilliancy, clearness and perfect evenness throughout the entire scale; and, above all, a surprising duration of sound, the pure and sympathetic quality of which never changes under the most delicate or powerful touch.

During the past forty-three years this firm has manusciured

80,000 PIANOS,

In the construction of which they have introduced every known and valuable improvement. They have invariably been selected and used by all of the world's asknowledged great artists who have visited this country professionally, both for private and public use.

THALBERG.

I consider Chickering & Sons' Pianos, beyond com-parison, the best I have ever seen in America.

GOTTSCHALK.

I consider Chickering & Sons' Pianos superior to any I consider Chickering & Sons' Pianos superior to any in the world.

They are unrivalled for their singing qualities and for the harmonious roundness of their tone. There is a perfect homogeneity throughout all the registers. The upper notes are remarkable for a clearness and purity which I do not find in any other instrument, while the base is distinguished for power without harshness, and for a magnificent sonority.

WEHLI.

Your Planes are superior to any I have ever seen in his country or ill Europe.

I have never heard a tone so perfect; it yields every expression that is needed in music, and its quality is capable of change to meet every sentiment. This is a rare power, and is derived from the perfect purity of its tone, together with its sympathetic, elastic and well balanced touch.

POZNANSKI.

During the past eight years I have constantly played upon the justly celebrated Erard Planes; yours are the only instruments that I have found, either here or in Europe, to equal them in all their points of excellence

It may be satisfactory to our patrons and friends among the publicat large to state that testimonials have been received from all the leading artists who have visited or are now residing in the United States, a few of whose names, besides those above, we append:

to use the different waters of the several fountains which boil up along that remarkable valley, dependent, indeed, upon them for much of the comfort I enjoy, I am satisfied that the Excelsior Water is as well adapted as any other among them, if not more so, to the purposes for which they are generally employed. It is very agreeable, strongly impregnated with the carbonic acid, lively and sparking. * * * I can heartily and conscientiously recommend it to all who need a gentle cathartic and diuretic.
